

HE IS LAID TO REST WITH HIGH HONORS

IMPOSING CEREMONIES AT THE FUNERAL OF CANOVAS.

A Military Escort Given—The Remains Are Borne From Santa Agueda Accompanied by Representatives of Royalty—General Campos Willing To Go to Cuba.

Madrid, Aug. 11.—A dispatch from Santa Agueda says that the funeral cortege accompanying the remains of Senor Canovas left the bathing establishment Tuesday accompanied by the duke of Sotomayor, majordomo to the royal household, representing the queen regent, and by Senor Castellano, minister for the colonies and Senor Elduayan.

The coffin, covered with wreaths, among them one from the queen regent, was borne on a car drawn by four horses. A detachment of chasseurs rendered military honors and acted as an escort. A special funeral train awaited the arrival of the cortege at Zumaraga.

The Marquis del Busto, the court physician, embalmed the body. The post-mortem examination showed that the premier was in an extremely healthy state, and that the brain was unusually large. It showed also that any of the three wounds would, alone, have proved fatal.

At special request of Senora Canovas the remains will lie in state at the private instead of the official residence. The government plan was for a lying in state at the official residence. The queen regent has ordered a special mass for the repose of his soul.

President McKinley has cabled to the Spanish government the condolence of the United States government and the American people.

It is understood that General Martinez Campos is willing to go to Cuba should the cabinet decide to recall General Weyler. There are also rumors that General Polavieja, former Governor of the Philippines, will be invited to succeed Weyler. But these are mere rumors, and thus far there is no indication of abrupt changes, either in the administration of Cuba or in the constitution of the cabinet.

The government has decided to try the assassin by court-martial. He still defiantly declares that other startling crimes will follow. The police and government detectives are acting with redoubled vigilance, and the government is in communication with foreign capitals on the question of the surveillance of anarchists.

A dispatch from Lucera, Italy, says that the Italian police have identified Golli, the assassin of Senor Canovas, as Michel Angiolino. He is 33 years of age, and was born at Foggia, capital of the province of that name in the Apulian plain. His military record was very bad. He proved an indifferent and disobedient soldier and was sent for three years' service in the disciplinary battalion. Subsequently he became a compositor.

In April, 1896, he was sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment for disseminating anarchist propaganda, but after serving a part of the term he escaped to Spain. He comes of an honest family. His father, who is a tailor, is grief stricken by the crime of his son.

The provincial and communal councils of Foggia have sent telegrams of condolence to the Spanish government denouncing the assassin.

PEORIA IN GREAT LUCK.

Washington Corrington, a Farmer, to Found a University.

Peoria, Ill., Aug. 11.—Washington Corrington, the millionaire farmer of this city, has accomplished the dream of his life by providing for a new university in Peoria, to cost $1,500,000. His entire fortune, gathered during a long life of toil, is to be devoted to the new school, which is to commemorate the founder by bearing the name of Corrington Institute and University. It will be erected on his old homestead near Peoria, where he has toiled for fifty-three years.

Education on an ethical basis is to be the fundamental principle of the new university. Sectarianism will have no place within its walls. It will be a university for men and women.

Will Demand a Disavowal.

New York, Aug. 11.—A dispatch from Washington says: There has been an intimation at the State Department that Minister de Lome will take official notice of the recent interview of Secretary of State Sherman about Spain's attitude toward Cuba and the lack of her resources in coping with the rebellion. It is said that he intends to insist upon a disavowal from Secretary Sherman. This plan of Spain's Minister may cause early an additional complication.

Bishop Vincent Heard.

Havana, Ill., Aug. 11.—Tuesday was the first big day of the Chautauqua assembly. Bishop John H. Vincent, the founder of the Chautauqua movement, was the principal attraction, and he was greeted by the largest crowd thus far during the assembly. The subject of his lecture was, "That Boy." To-day is fraternal day, and Booker T. Washington, the famous colored orator, is the first attraction.

THE BASEBALL REPORT.

Standing of the Clubs in the Various Leagues.

The Colts clinched with a firmer grip sixth place yesterday, Philadelphia losing. It was a pretty game at Boston, with Klobedanz having a shade the better of it in the pitchers' box. Baltimore won one game from Brooklyn, but the Bridegrooms played fast in the second, with the result that the score was tied in the eighth, when darkness stopped the game. Cincinnati won from Pittsburgh, retaining its vantage in second position. Standing of the clubs:

IS RELIEVED BY DAY.

Sherman's Assistant to Take Charge of State Department.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—A dispatch from Washington to the Chronicle says: "William R. Day, first assistant secretary of state, will return here immediately and assume personal supervision over the department of which he has been for some time the practical head. He has determined to curtail his vacation, which is being spent in Canton, Ohio, and will make the personal sacrifice involved in the resumption of his official duties at the request of President McKinley. The chaotic condition of affairs in the department of state, which has for some time been apparent to the general public, has reached such serious proportions as to cause grave apprehensions to the administration.

"When Judge Day went to his Ohio home it was with the expectation of remaining until at least Sept. 1."

Will Increase Wages.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—The wages of the window glass workers of the United States are to take an upward turn. A higher scale will prevail all over the country when the new blast begins Sept. 1. The scale for the coming months—the glass workers are idle during July and August—will be fixed at a meeting being held in this city today. At this meeting there are representatives of the manufacturers and of the window glass workers, constituting the wage committee of the industry throughout the country. There may be some difference between the manufacturers and the workers regarding the percentage of the increase in the scale, but an increase there is bound to be.

Argentine Bars Anarchists.

London, Aug. 11.—According to a dispatch from Buenos Ayres, the government of the Argentine Republic has decided to prevent the landing of any Spanish anarchists on Argentine soil.

ROW IN A PRISON AND BULLETS SING

CONVICTS MAKE A DESPERATE BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

Two Men Fatally Wounded—Herbert A. Willis, a Life Prisoner in the Massachusetts Penitentiary, Aided by His Brother Everett, Attacks Guards in an Effort To Escape

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11.—Forty shots were fired in the attempt of the bicycle road agent and murderer, Herbert A. Willis, aided by his brother Everett, to escape from the state prison at Charlestown Tuesday, and when the smoke scurried away through the corridors from the guardroom three men were stretched on the floor. Two of these three—and they were Willis brothers—were mortally wounded, and the other, Officer E. H. Darling, who is 72 years old and has been connected with the prison for forty years, was shot in the leg and his skull cracked by a blow from a revolver.

Herbert Willis, the elder of the two brothers, was serving a life sentence for the murder of Frederick H. Strange at White's Four Corners, in Taunton-on-the-Nio, June 22, 1896.

About 10 o'clock Tuesday morning Everett Willis, who is about 18, called at the prison and asked to see his brother. Permission was granted, and the visitor was told that he and the prisoner could converse together for one hour. Some time during the hour the visiting brother passed a revolver to the convict, and, at the instant that Officer Darling announced that the time limit had expired, Herbert Willis let go point blank at Officer Witham. He fired three shots at him and missed him every time. The visiting brother, Everett, opened fire directly the first shot from Herbert's revolver was fired. He selected Officer Darling for his target and succeeded in hitting him twice.

Both of these officers took a hand in the shooting as soon as they could pull their guns, and Herbert Willis fell shot through the head and under one shoulder. About the same time his brother Everett dropped from a bullet in the head from Darling's revolver. There were also several other wounds on his body.

The prison was in an uproar. Prisoners were shrieking and officers with drawn guns were turning higher and thither, threatening to kill any one who made a threatening move. It took several minutes for the smoke to clear from the guardroom and when it did Herbert Willis was carried to the prison hospital and his brother, Everett, was sent away to the Massachusetts general. Surgeons at both hospitals say the men will die.

Hunter Defeats Bradley.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 11.—Governor Bradley and Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter struggled for supremacy in the Republican state convention Tuesday and Hunter won. The convention did not condemn Bradley and it even endorsed the state administration, but the governor was "dismissed with faint done towards fusion with the gold praise." As was expected, nothing was done. J. G. Bailey, the "boy orator of Magoffin county," had practically no opposition for the nomination for clerk of the Court of Appeals.

Fire Sweeps a Russian Town.

Berlin, Aug. 11.—A special dispatch received here says that fire has destroyed the greater part of the Russian town of Matislav, west of Moghloff, in the government of Mohelev, on the River Sozh, an affluent of the Dnieper. Two hundred houses have been burned, and a famous Jewish synagogue and six Jewish schools have been ruined.

Shortage in the Potato Crop.

Columbia City, Ind., Aug. 11.—The potato crop in this and surrounding counties will be the shortest in years owing to the ravages of the Colorado potato bug. Whole fields of potatoes have been abandoned as worthless and farmers will scarcely have potatoes enough for home use. Similar reports come from all over the northern part of the state.

Ohio Silver Men Meet.

Columbus, O., Aug. 11.—The silver Republican state central committee at a meeting held at the Chittenden elected George D. Jones of Columbus, chairman. Dr. A. L. Davis of Findlay was elected secretary and Judge Frank of Akron treasurer.

Dr. Brown to Get a New Trial.

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 11.—The Bay conference of Congregational churches adopted the report of its special committee recommending the granting of the request of Rev. C. O. Brown, D. D., of Chicago, for a new council.

Foresters Meet at La Salle.

LaSalle, Ill., Aug. 11.—Tuesday was the opening day of the nineteenth annual convention of the high court, Independent Order of Foresters of the state of Illinois. The city is elaborately decorated.

Moving to Murphysboro.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 11.—More than 150 Belleville miners left there last night and began their march to Murphysboro. A stand will be made at Murphysboro, which will be made the center of strike activity for a time.

SHERIFF IS SCARED BY CROWDS OF MEN

DEPUTIES OF COFFEEN, ILL., ARE REINFORCED.

Town Guard Strengthened—Preparations Made for an Attack by the Visiting Strikers—Miners Have New Hope in West Virginia—Quiet Day in Pennsylvania.

Coffeen, Ill., Aug. 11.—Tuesday was a day of feverish excitement in Coffeen. There were fears of an early attack by Bradley and his army. The guard on the main road was strengthened, but the strikers failed to appear during the morning. While the guards were awaiting the expected approach of the strikers the miners went to the shaft in twos and fours, but they refused to go below until long after fears of the strikers' approach had been dissipated.

Sheriff Randle at 10 o'clock at night ordered out 150 armed men to reinforce the guard protecting the town against invasion. He also telegraphed to Nokomis for fifty more men. Advances received by the sheriff from Hillsborough state that Bradley is on his way to camp and that fully 200 strikers are coming from Auburn, Glard and other mining towns to the north.

NEW HOPE FOR WEST VIRGINIA.

Miners Make Notable Gains in the Mountain State.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 11.—There has been greatly increased activity in strike circles all over West Virginia except in the Norfolk & Western field, where the organizers seem content to wait till they get the more friendly regions into line.

The Pan-Handle mines are all closed but Elm Grove, where forty of the 200 miners were at work. At 3 o'clock in the morning 200 men from Wheeling Creek, Ohio; 100 from Mountsville, and others from Glendale, Bellaire, Elm Grove and the local peddling mines, arrived at Boggs' Run, to wait till the men working there put in an appearance. The Boggs Run men were reasoned with by committees from the marchers, and in a few minutes decided to join the strike.

The trades and labor assembly had its wagons out again Tuesday, getting provisions for the miners' relief store. They were very successful, and brought in enough to relieve all immediate wants. Schedules of prices charged by the company store at the Glendale mines have been prepared and sworn to, and placed on exhibition. They show that the men paid $1.90 for powder that sells here for 90 cents. Coffee costs 22 cents, sugar 10 cents a pound, flour $1.50 per sack, calico 10 cents a yard and other articles in proportion.

Rain Keeps Marchers Quiet.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 11.—A crisis is fast approaching in the miners' movement against the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company. Tuesday's work, while not viewed in a disappointing light by the campers at Turtle Creek, Sandy Creek and Plum Creek, was not of the most encouraging sort. To begin with, they had to contend with their first spell of bad weather. A heavy rain drenched the camps and many of the men, and at 3:30 o'clock, when the marchers usually leave the camp for the mines, the storm was so great that they concluded not to battle with it. At Plum Creek the rain and absence of a band kept the men in their quarters, with the result that no missionary work was undertaken.

Operators Will Stand Firm.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—"If our miners think we will ever give in to their demands," said Harry N. Taylor, general manager of the General Wilmington Coal Company, yesterday, "they may as well pack up their duds and vamoze, for we will hang out till doomsday before we start up with the scale adopted at the Springfield convention." This sentiment is echoed by all the large operators in the northern field, and if they remain firm in their attitude over 15,000 workmen will undergo a siege of enforced idleness.

Will Resist Indiana Miners.

Madisonville, Ky., Aug. 11.—A warm reception awaits the crusading Indiana miners when they attempt to enter Hopkins county to force the men employed at the mines to strike. The belief is now growing that the agitators will not put in an appearance at Earlington, where the largest mines are situated. The force of marching strikers is still at Evansville.

Will Protect Miners.

Decatur, Ill., Aug. 11.—Preparations are being made for the proposed invasion of this county by miners from surrounding towns. The sheriff is making a list of 100 men and will swear them in as deputies on the approach of the miners. He says all Decatur miners who want to work will be given full protection.

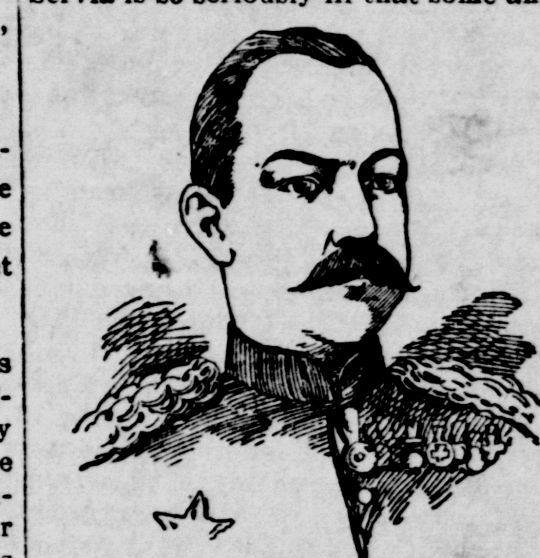

Indorse the Convention.

Spring Valley, Ill., Aug. 11.—The miners of Spring Valley met Tuesday in mass meeting to hear the report of the delegates to the Springfield convention. Contrary to expectations, there was no serious objection made to the 68½-cents gross-weight scale.

SENATOR STEWART'S IDEA.

Spain Under the Rule of Canovas Was a Barbarous Nation.

New York, Aug. 11.—United States Senator William M. Stewart of Nevada, discussing the assassination of Premier Canovas, said: "Considering the fact that Canovas was responsible for the Barcelona trials and sustained Weyler in his barbarities in Cuba, it is very evident that the anarchists got the worst man they could find to wreak their vengeance on. The Barcelona trials and the Cuban atrocities are the legitimate parents of anarchy, on the principle that crime produces crime. "The test of the absolute barbarity of a nation is its administration of criminal law. Any country that would compel persons, by torture or otherwise, to incriminate themselves is barbarous and not entitled to recognition in the family of nations. That was what Spain did under Canovas."

SILVER MAN WINS.

Griffith (Dem.) Elected in the 4th Indiana Congressional District.

Columbus, Ind., Aug. 11.—Francis Marion Griffith, of Rising Sun, silver Democrat, will represent the Fourth congressional district of Indiana in the next congress. Incomplete returns from the ten counties in this district indicate that Griffith has made gains in seven of the counties. These gains will range from 100 to 600. Reports from Dearborn, Ohio, Ripley, Switzerland, Jefferson, Brown and Bartholomew all show Democratic gains. In the agricultural portions the Republicans have made the best showing, and the totals may be cut down, but it is estimated that Griffith will have a majority in the district of 1,200 votes. Major C. W. Lee, of Vevay, the Republican nominee, cut down Holman's majority in Jackson county 300. This county gave Holman 906 majority. In 1896 Holman, Democrat, received 23,594; Suizer, Republican, 22,769.

WEYLER MEETS DEFEAT.

Insurgents Win an Important Battle in Matanzas.

Havana, Aug. 11.—Official information has reached Havana of a decisive battle between loyal troops and insurgent forces in Matanzas. According to this information the Spanish troops were routed, after a hard battle, with heavy loss. This news caused a veritable sensation in Havana, as it is generally known that Captain General Weyler is now in Matanzas, and there is a belief that the Spanish troops directly under him were those who suffered defeat at the hands of the rebels. However, if this is true, the Spanish officials here are taking great pains to suppress the fact.

After an all day session they adjourned to meet at Saratoga, N. Y., a week from today, when they expect to go on with the discussion.

Des Moines, Iowa, Aug. 11.—Gov. Drake has written to his private secretary, William Fleming, saying that he is improving in health, and hopes to be able to resume his duties by Sept. 1.

TO SETTLE STRIKE BEFORE IT BEGINS

TROUBLE AT ISHPERING TO BE ADJUSTED.

It Is Not Thought That the Men Will Go Out August 23, as Was at First Expected—Many Men Join the Union—A Mine Has Been Opened.

Ishpeming, Mich., Aug. 11.—[Special]—The prospects are now that the threatened strike of miners on Aug. 23 will be avoided. Many of the non-union men have joined the union and if nearly all can be induced to come over to the union there will be no strike. The leaders of the union are blamed here for the attempt to bring about a strike without first trying to make a settlement. The bosses say any non-union men who happen to be here when time comes for a strike order to go into effect will be discharged.

Mine Resumes Operations.

Bessemer, Mich., Aug. 11.—[Special]—The Wakefield mine resumed operations here this morning and two hundred men were put to work. It is expected that the Lake Angele mine, a branch of the former, will also resume in a few days, employing about the same number of men.

INCREASE THE FEES OF INCORPORATION

COST OF STARTING COMPANIES TO BE MADE HIGHER.

Governor Recommends It at a Special Session, Opening Today—The Legislature Will Adopt the Graded System, Now in Force in Minneapolis—The Labor Bill.

Today, at noon the revision committee of the legislature met for its last week's session at the capitol at Madison. The omnibus bill containing the revised statutes of Wisconsin is now practically completed and will be on the desks of the committee members when they convene. In many ways numerous amendments have been added to the laws and these are in the revised bill, which after being passed by the committee the last of this week will be presented to the legislature one week from Tuesday noon, when it will convene in special session.

Besides the change in the struck jury, a very important change has been made in the law by an amendment to the measure in regard to the incorporation of corporations. Up to the present time the fee which has been charged for this has always been $10.

Pay 50 Cents On $1,000.

Now, however, only corporations having a small capital stock will pay this fee while all large corporations will pay a fee of 50 cents on every $1,000 after the minimum limit. Besides these changes at the special session of the legislature the members will have an opportunity to vote on the Berger labor bill, which was advanced to a third reading in the senate on the day of the taking of the recess and then got no further because on the afternoon of that day there was not sufficient members in attendance to permit a suspension of the rules by the two-thirds vote necessary for such a step.

This matter will be called up by Senator Roehr of Milwaukee, who fought for the bill's passage during the winter session of the legislature. In an interview on the proposed amendments which have been offered by the revision committee, Mr. Roehr said:

Governor Scofield's Idea.

"The matter of charging more for the incorporation of corporations was called to the attention of the committee by Governor Scofield. Wisconsin has long been behind most of the other states on this point, and the governor appeared before a committee and asked that the rates be increased, saying that by reason of having larger fees Minnesota was enabled to gain $25,000 from one of the transcontinental railroad companies, when it incorporated in that state. The amendment as proposed makes the present fee of $10 only sufficient for companies having stock of less than $2,500 or $5,000, I have forgotten which, and for every $1,000 above that amount an additional fee of 50 cents per thousand will have to be paid. Thus if $5,000 is the minimum limit, the fee for incorporating a company with a stock of $100,000 would be $57.50, or 50 cents on a thousand on $95,000 and $10 the original fee. For a $200,000 company the fee would be $107.50 and so on, until from a $1,000,000 company the sum of $507.50 would be obtained."

GAME OLD RACER ON DECK

Wisconsin King Will Be Out This Fall Again.

Janesville horse lovers will be interested in the statement that Wisconsin King is going to be campaigned some this fall. The big black pacer owned by Alderman Sturtevant of Rockford, has a biography of interest. Ex-Alderman Sturtevant discovered him near Delavan. He had a local reputation as a pacer but he was not so fast at that time, to prevent him from doing menial work on a farm. His owner probably did not think it was good policy to spoil a good plow horse to make a poor race horse.

After Sturtevant had become the owner of Wisconsin King and he had astonished horsemen all over the country all kinds of stories were afloat as to how he became his owner. The fact is, the King became Sturtevant's property as the result of a succession of trades in horses made for Sturtevant by a veterinary surgeon at Delavan. When the trading came to an end Sturtevant had the King. The King could pace in the thirties when he was brought from Delavan to Rockford. Three months later he was going in the teens and the following season he broke the half mile track pacing record and showed creditably in the hottest pacing company in the country.

Sturtevant was offered $4,000 for the King after a race at Grand Rapids, Mich. After getting hold of the King and finding how fast he was, Sturtevant went to Delavan and bought a colt, the only full brother of the King that could be found. Before that colt was a year old, the King had become famous, and Sturtevant was offered $1,000 for the colt. After the King got his fast mark, horsemen ran all over southern Wisconsin looking for full brothers and half-brothers and sisters and cousins of the King.

Around Delavan nearly every horse that could move along on the country road fast enough to keep warm, was called a half brother, at least, of Wisconsin King, and a number of farmers made good sales.

Wisconsin King was sired by Wisconsin. The King is the only member of the Wisconsin family that has showed up as a pacer. All the rest of the family, so far as known, are trotters. Although Wisconsin King was picked up off a farm, it must not be thought that there is anything particularly remarkable in his showing of speed. He is full of racing blood, that explains it, and his change from the furrow to the track only afforded a chance for him to show that "blood will tell."

CROWDS TO HARVEST FIELDS

Extra Trains Being Operated to Accommodate Them

"The rush for the harvest fields of Minnesota and the Dakotas is something that must be seen to be realized," said a representative of the Great Northern railway in this city, this morning. "All the roads leading to the harvest fields from St. Paul and Minneapolis have been compelled to run special trains every day for more than a week to accommodate the passengers. Every regular train leaving St. Paul for northern Minnesota and the Dakotas has had extra cars attached, and even then the crowds could not be comfortably taken care of. Literally thousands of residents of St. Paul and Minneapolis have gone to work in the harvest fields. In many instances the wives of the men accompanying the men, in the expectation of obtaining employment on the farms during the busy season. All the railroads have made a uniform rate of $5 from St. Paul and Minneapolis to any point in the wheat district. There seems to be no fear that anyone will lack for employment. The crop this year is probably the heaviest that was ever known, and the increase in acreage is something that cannot be comprehended without seeing the miles on miles of wheat fields."

"I am not certain what wages are being paid to harvesters, but have been told they are from $1.50 to $2.50 per day and board."

LABELS PRISON MADE GOODS

Violations of the Law to Result in Prosecution.

Halford Erickson, state labor commissioner is finding it no easy task to enforce the law enacted by the last legislature providing for the labeling of convict made goods. The greater number of violations are in the northern part of the state, where a great deal of the goods manufactured at the Stillwater prison in Minnesota is sold. Mr. Erickson has been investigating the matter very thoroughly. He has made no arrests as yet, but it is probable that some of the dealers will be brought to time in the near future. The manufacturers declare the law to be unconstitutional and say they are anxious to have it tested in the courts. The attorney-general has prepared a brief covering this point to be used in case an arrest is made. It is said that a St. Croix county merchant will be arrested for violation of the law and the question of its validity will then be brought before the court.

BELOIT'S FIRST MARKET DAY

Many Farmers Listen to an Address by Ex-Governor Howard.

Beloit, Wis., Aug. 10.—The first monthly market was held yesterday. There was a good line of exhibits, and the trading done by the farmers was better than ever known. Prizes were offered for exhibits, and there was a good programme of sports. At 2 o'clock ex-Governor Howard was introduced by ex-Congressman Habbitt, and made an address, speaking of the line of progressive farming. He said he did not think there was another section in the world so good for successful farming as Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois. The farmer had become more than a producer. He was now a manufacturer of farm products. Gov. Howard encouraged the market day as a medium of exchange. The regular market days will be the first Tuesday in each month.

FIGHT OVER INCORPORATION

Opposition to Making Milton Junction a Fourth Class City

The fight over the incorporation of Milton Junction is a lively one. In the area proposed to be incorporated there are about 200 voters, and the promoters of incorporation say they have secured a large majority of them. There is, however, a surprise party in store for these men, if their opponents are to be retired, as the latter say they have on their remonstrance many more than a majority of legal voters.

GETS AN ORDER FOR SHELLS

Agent Finley Says the Market Is Not So Dead After All.

Agent Finley, the local clam shell agent, says that the clam industry is far from being dead in this city.

"My latest order from my New York firm was to ship them two cars of shells taken from the beds of Sugar and Pecatonica rivers," remarked Mr. Finley. "This order I filled this week, shipping via Brownstown and Janesville."

In speaking of the samples recently shipped from here to the other New York firm, Mr. Finley said he has not yet been notified of the result of the experiments that were to have been made with them.

What the next move will be remains to be seen, and in the mean time, the shells still remain a drug in the market.

IS IT A TRIFLE?

That Common Troubles, Acid Dyspepsia or Sour Stomach.

Now Recognized as a Cause of Serious Disease.

Acid dyspepsia, commonly called heartburn or sour stomach, is a form of indigestion resulting from fermentation of the food. The stomach being too weak to promptly digest it, the food remains until fermentation begins, filling the stomach with gas, and a bitter, sour, burning taste in the mouth is often present. This condition soon becomes chronic and being an every day occurrence is given but little attention. Because dyspepsia is not immediately fatal many people do nothing for the trouble.

Within a recent period a remedy has been discovered prepared solely to cure dyspepsia and stomach troubles. It is known as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and is now becoming rapidly used and prescribed as a radical cure for every form of dyspepsia.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been placed before the public and are sold by druggists everywhere at 50 cents per package. It is prepared by the Stuart Chemical Co., Marshall, Mich., and while it promptly and effectually restores a vigorous digestion, at the same time is perfectly harmless and will not injure the most delicate stomach, but on the contrary by giving perfect digestion strengthens the stomach, improves the appetite and makes life worth living.

Pianos and Organs, Janesville, Wis.:

Dear Sir:—We purchased a Braumuller Piano about five years ago and can truthfully say that I take pleasure in stating that it has given the most perfect satisfaction in our home. Its capacity for standing in tune is certainly wonderful and the tone today is as good if not better than the day we bought it, and would recommend it to any one wanting a first-class Piano.
Respectfully Yours,

Clear the Way

For the escape from the system of its waste and debris, which, if retained, would vitiate the bloody fluids and overthrow health. That important channel of exit, the bowels, may be kept perfectly free from obstructions by using the non-gripping, gently acting and agreeable cathartic, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which not only liberates impurities, but invigorates the lining of the intestinal canal, when weakened by constipation or the unwise use of violent purgatives. The stomach, liver and urinary organs are likewise reinforced and aroused to healthful action by this beneficent tonic and corrector, and every organ, fiber muscle and nerve experiences a share of its invigorating influence. Unobtainable, thorough, a most genial and wholesome medicinal stimulant, and owing its efficacy to botanic sources exclusively, it is the remedy best adapted to household use, on account of its safety, wide scope and speedy action.

Last year its sale reached the unprecedented number of twenty million packages. It is prepared upon scientific principles by men who have had years of practical experience in fabric dyeing. It makes every old summer dress to their natural whiteness, and imparts to linen a beautiful and lasting finish. SAYS UNKNOWN MEN FIRED HIS TENT

A LAKE KOSHKONONG CAMPER
SEEKS SATISFACTION.

Says He Lost $1,000 in the Fire That Destroyed His Canvas House, and Asks for a Warrant—He Thinks Someone Stole His Guns Before the Flames Started.

Charles A. Boschert, of Burlington, walked into District Attorney Jackson's office this morning and made a complaint against Lake Koshkonong parties, charging them with incendiarism.

Boschert claims that while he was in this city on business last Saturday, certain parties set fire to his tent causing its total destruction with all contents and involving a loss of $1,000.

The matter will be fully investigated. Boschert, who is a respected business man in Burlington and the owner of property at Geneva, is a man who is highly respected by all. Three weeks ago he decided that a good way to spend the summer was to camp out on the shores of Lake Koshkonong, where he could put in his time hunting and fishing. Accordingly, he rented land on the shore near the boundary line of the Pierce and Vincent properties.

Says They Robbed Him. His tent contained trunks that sheltered valuable papers as well as other articles of value, including guns and other articles that go to make up a first class camping outfit.

Last Saturday evening about 11 o'clock, while Mr. Boschert was in this city, unknown parties, it is said, saturated his tent with kerosene and then applied the match. The flames attracted the attention of campers, but they could do little toward saving the property.

A five gallon empty kerosene can was all that was found, and that was discovered several yards from the fire. The object of the firebug, Mr. Boschert says, was no doubt robbery, for no trace of any of his guns could be found in the ashes.

Mr. Boschert places his loss at $1,000, saying that notes that were bankable were destroyed along with his trunks.

JURY SPLIT THE DIFFERENCE

Verdict Is Returned In the Mitchell-Dickenson Case.

A jury in Justice L. F. Patten's court "split the difference" so to speak, in the board bill case of Mrs. Harriet E. Mitchell vs. Dr. H. H. Dickenson. The jury found that the doctor had performed dental work at different times for the Mitchell family, that brought the bill down to $55, which amount they allowed Mrs. Mitchell. The jury was composed of William M. Eldredge, D. D. Bennett, B. H. Pickering, Albert Smith and A. E. Tanberg.

M. P. Richardson appeared for Mrs. Mitchell and S. M. Smith for Dr. Dickenson.

VIOLATING THE GAME LAWS

Prairie Chickens Are Being Shot Regardless of Statutes.

The game law is supposed to prevent the shooting of prairie chickens until September 1, but it is said that many are being killed these days, regardless of the law. The game law protects all game until September 1. Prairie chickens have been scarce for many years, and now that they are beginning to multiply on Rock county fields again, it is a shame that they are not protected. A prosecution or two might have a wholesome effect, and it is to be hoped that some "pot hunters" will get caught.

MAXON AT COUNTY FARM

Evansville Man's Threat Resulted in the Trip Being Made.

When Poormaster S. B. Kenyon offered S. Maxon of Evansville, free transportation and free board if he would accompany him to the county farm, Mr. Maxon declined, stating that he would commit suicide first. Mr. Kenyon then requested Marshal Tullar of that city, to arrest Mr. Maxon for making such a threat, and take him before Justice Phillips, who committed him to the county house for six months, where he will find a good home.

LIKELY TO HOLD FAIR

Twenty-Nine Out of Thirty Replies Received, Favor the Plan, Secretary McKey Says.

Indications were today that a county fair will be held this fall. The notices sent out by Secretary George M. McKey yesterday brought in thirty answers from as many stockholders, and out of this number, all but one favored holding a fair this fall.

Secretary McKey says that in case the fair is held it will follow the Elkhorn exhibition, and will take place some time in October.

TALK OF THE JAIL AT COURT HOUSE

STATE BOARD MEETS COUNTY AUTHORITIES.

Conference Is Being Held This Afternoon, and It Is Said That the Board Will Refuse to Rescind the Order of Condemnation Which Has Recently Been Issued.

A conference of the members of the state board of control and the authorities of Rock county is being held at the county court house this afternoon to consider the order of the board in condemning the Rock county jail.

The action of the board has aroused considerable opposition and a strong effort may be made to induce the board to rescind its order.

However, there is little likelihood of the board's taking any such action, as the fact that two prisoners easily escaped last week, and that there are many other complaints, will be considered as good evidence of the wisdom of the order of condemnation.

The county is represented at the conference by the trustees, Supervisors Merrill, Killam and Davis; and the building committee, Supervisors Bailey, Batheram and Godfrey.

President J. E. Heg, Clarence Snyder, Judge Lyon, Richard Guenther and R. E. Peherick were the members of the board of control present.

The board visited the county poor farm this morning and also looked over the state school for the blind.

ENEMIES OF RUM ARE TO MEET HERE

TEMPERANCE WOMEN ARE TO GATHER IN OCTOBER.

Workers of the First Congressional District Will Be Present—Plans Are Made at Yesterday's Meeting—Committee Appointed To Dispose of the Dining Hall at Fair Grounds.

A two day's session of the W. C. T. U. will be held here during the last week in October, which will bring delegates from all principal towns and cities in the First Congressional district to Janesville.

The towns from which delegates will be in attendance include Elkhorn, Delavan, Clinton, Sheroa, Whitewater, Jefferson, Fort Atkinson, Beloit, Springfield and Evansville.

At a business meeting held yesterday afternoon at the North High street home of Mrs. Eliza Yates, it was voted to set September 4, as the time of holding the next county meeting, to be held in this city and at which time all necessary arrangements would be made for the district meeting to be held in this city in October.

Sell the Dining Hall.

At yesterday's meeting, the president, Mrs. Cora E. Dickenson, of Johnson Center, presided, and called the meeting to order at two o'clock. The disposal of the large W. C. T. U. dining hall that is now on the Fair grounds was the first matter brought under discussion, and after a lengthy debate it was decided that a committee of five be appointed to take the matter in hand. They will sell or dispose of the structure as they see fit. The following committee was then appointed, Mesdames Wilcox, Clinton; Dickenson, Johnson; Osburn, Johnson; Wheeler, Beloit; and Yates, Janesville.

The large structure that is now clogging the society has never been a bonanza in the way of a money maker, although they have each year made a small surplus, with the exception of last year, when the society ran behind $25. The building was built ten years ago, and cost $400.

CHAPTER I.
THE CRIME.

"It's my opinion they won't catch him. Marvel's no fool if he is hot-headed, and he knows enough to keep under cover now that they are after him."

"That's all right, Everly, and, as you say, I guess Marvel can hide away well enough. But what I want to know is, what's he got to hide for? He ain't done nothing as I can see 'cept to fire off his pistol when he was mad as thunder."

"And right he was, too," said another loungee in the saloon where this conversation occurred. "I say any man of grit would have done the same. Why, didn't the old man try to disgrace him right before his sweetheart and a lot of girls?"

"Well, anyway," said the storekeeper, removing his pipe to speak, "smart or fool, I guess they'll get him. I hear as how the squire is terrible cut up about this thing, and he's sent down to Boston for a regular detective."

"The squire's sent to Boston for a detective?" said Everly. "I wouldn't have believed that the squire would do such a thing. To set a spy on the track of one of his neighbors! Why, it's disgraceful."

Over in the corner, on chairs drawn up close to the stove, sat two strangers. They had arrived in Lee that morning, and after taking drinks at this the only tavern in the town had apparently set about getting warm. The elder of the two here ventured a remark.

"Gentlemen," said he, "if you'll pardon the curiosity of a stranger, I'd like to ask you what crime this young man has committed?"

A pause followed, while the strangers became the object of a close scrutiny by all present. Finally Will Everly stepped forward, and, looking his interrogator steadily in the face, said:

"I am Will Everly, Walter Marvel's friend. Before I answer any of your questions I must know who you are and why you wish to know this story."

"Your talk aroused my curiosity," said the stranger.

"Will you deny that you are a detective?" Everly eyed him closely, but not a sign indicated that the question had caused surprise. He was disappointed, for he had expected him to be disconcerted. The reply was simple.

"I shall not deny it, for I never lie." He handed Everly a card upon which was neatly engraved, "John Barnes, Detective, Boston."

After reading it, conciliated by the detective's honesty, Everly said:

"I thank you for your candor. I suspected you, for we seldom have strangers in Lee. As I am Marvel's friend, and as you have come here to make trouble for him, you will pardon me if I give you no information which will be of use to you."

"No need, young man. We'll get along well enough without you." Everly recognized the voice of Squire Olney, who had just entered, and he turned away. The squire shook Mr. Barnes cordially by the hand, saying:

"You are Mr. Barnes, the man sent down by the Pilkingtons, I presume? I am glad you are so punctual. I expected to find you here, as I received a dispatch from your chief last night. As soon as you are ready I shall take you up to Mr. Lewis' house, for it is in connection with his affair that I sent for you."

"I am ready to go with you at once," said Mr. Barnes in an undertone, "but first let me introduce to you my friend Mr. Burrows. He is a young man in whom the chief is interested, and he works with the older men that he may acquire experience. He is a beginner, but he is shrewd and promises to become a first class detective."

Burrows arose, and the squire shook hands with him, whereupon the three men exchanged a few words in an undertone. Meanwhile another stranger appeared upon the scene. This was a man dressed in the garb of a sailor. He ordered a hot drink, for which he paid in advance. Then he asked one or two questions, whereupon the storekeeper called out:

"I say, squire! Here's a man you may as well see."

Thus summoned, the squire left the detectives and approached the newcomer.

"Well, my man," he asked, "what can I do for you?"

"My name is John Lewis," was the reply. "I have been at sea for several years, but have at last reached home again, or rather I should say my father's home, for this is my first visit to Lee. I was asking to be directed to my father's house when this gentleman told me that you were about to go there and might be willing to take me with you."

"I shall be delighted to do so," said the squire, offering his hand to Lewis in cordial recognition. "I have often heard your father speak of you, and as I know that he loves you and longs for your return it will be a pleasure to me to restore his son to him."

"You can't think how your words gladden me," said Lewis, apparently overcome by emotion. "I ran away from home when I was a youngster, and now that I have come back it is good news to hear that a welcome awaits me."

"Welcome? Yes, indeed. Your father has often said to me that he would cheerfully forgive your foolish escapade if you would but return. But come. We must start at once. I have business of importance with your father this morning, and I am taking a detective with me to his house."

"A detective!" exclaimed Lewis. He seemed startled, and Tom Burrows, who was watching him, noted that he glanced hurriedly around the room, his eyes resting finally upon Mr. Barnes and himself.

"Oh, you need not be alarmed!" said the squire, observing his agitation. "It is in your father's interest that I have brought a detective from Boston. I will explain as we go along."

"You must excuse my being startled," said Lewis, "but it rather astounded me to hear that you were taking a detective to my father's house. At the instant the absurd but horrible idea entered my brain that you meant to arrest him."

Tom Burrows thought it a significant fact that at the mention of the word "detective" Lewis' eye should have sought the very men who were detectives. When he imparted this suspicion to Mr. Barnes, the latter suggested that possibly Lewis had seen them before and that their faces attracted him because he partly recognized them. Subsequently he learned that Lewis had seen them that same morning on the train, but had reached Lee after them, because he had walked from Newmarket, while they had taken the stage.

Without further conversation the four men started on their way toward the home of John Lewis. As they walked the squire enlightened them upon the affair which had necessitated the presence of a detective.

"This business," he began, "is particularly unpleasant because the best people in the town are mixed up in it. John Lewis came to Lee 15 years ago, bringing with him a little girl, then about 6 years of age. Virginia she is named, though her intimates call her Virgie. We knew nothing of Lewis, but he appeared to have money, for he bought Riverside farm, on which he has lived ever since. He made friends rapidly as the townspeople came to know him, and he was reckoned an acquisition. The girl was not his own child, he explained, but an adopted one, the daughter of his sister, who had died. He mentioned having a son"—the squire here addressed Lewis—"but we never saw you. How was that?"

"When my father came to Lee," replied Lewis, "he left me at a military academy in New York, but I chafed under the restraint, and one day very foolishly ran away and shipped for a voyage to China."

"Ah! That explains matters. About five years after Lewis settled here the Marvels came. At first it was only for the summer months, but finally they bought a place and since then have been permanent residents. Naturally young Walter Marvel—an only son—met Virgie, and from boyhood he has been attached to her. But while she has never acted so that any one, even her most intimate friends, could be sure that she loved him. There are two others connected with what I am about to tell you—Alice Marvel, Walter's sister, and Harry Lucas, Walter's friend, currently supposed to be in love with Alice, though there are some who claim that were it not for the friendship between him and Walter, Lucas would court Miss Lewis himself. That is probably only gossip. However, these four young people are fast friends."

"They are constantly together and are partners in many enterprises of a social or charitable nature. Another fact which has a not unimportant bearing upon the subsequent events is that all four of these young people are expert shots with a pistol. Some two or three years ago a circus appeared in this neighborhood, the star attraction of which was a young girl who was wonderfully clever with a pistol. Virgie declared that she, too, could learn to shoot, and the result was that pistols were bought, and, I may say, a sort of shooting club was formed, though only these four were members."

"Recently Virgie attained her majority and arranged to celebrate it with a festival for all of her friends. As it was during the nutting season the guests were invited to come for the day, the many nut trees near the river banks promising occupation to those who cared for that sort of amusement, while tennis nets and croquet were set upon the lawn. In addition it was announced that there would be a shooting match in which all could take part."

"All went merrily during the morning, and a sumptuous dinner, served upon tables in the open air, had been enjoyed by all, after which the party dispersed about the farm in small groups. I was sitting on a bench chatting with Lewis when Virgie and Walter Marvel approached. The latter asked permission to speak to Lewis privately, and I therefore walked a little way from them with Virgie. At the time I had no idea of Marvel's object in seeking the interview with Lewis and was startled a few moments later to hear them talking in angry tones; but that you may better understand the affair I will relate just what occurred, as it was told to me afterward by Lewis himself."

"It appears that the shooting match that day had a greater prize at stake than the trophy which had been offered. Marvel had asked Virgie to be his wife and begged permission to speak to her adopted father. With a smile and womanlike, desiring to keep him in suspense as long as possible, her reply had been, 'Beat me at the target, and you may speak to father.' This he had accomplished, though by only a single point, and it was to ask for the hand of Virgie that he had impatiently sought the private conversation with Lewis. Lewis confessed to me that he had not suspected that there was any attachment between them, and he was therefore surprised by Marvel's request. He asked whether Virgie had given her consent, and, receiving the affirmative reply, after a moment's hesitation he informed Marvel that he would not sanction his suit. Marvel of course urged his cause, and Lewis made some angry remarks, which at last were loud enough to attract my attention. Virgie and then went quickly toward the women, and others did the same, so that when the finale came there was quite a crowd of people about us. As we approached Marvel said hotly:

"'Virgie, Mr. Lewis refuses his consent and will not give his reasons.' 'Why do you object, uncle?' asked Virgie. She strongly emphasized the word 'uncle,' a title by which she had never addressed him before. This incident will give you an insight into that girl's character—cool, self possessed and withal willful and determined, though by willful I do not mean that she is unrestrained by reason, but rather that once having formed a project she will carry it into effect at any cost. For a moment Lewis seemed staggered by her words, but he quickly recovered himself and replied:

"'Because I will not allow my daughter to marry into a family of jail-birds.'"

"What do you mean by that?" fairly screamed Walter, trembling with barely suppressed anger.

"What do I mean?" retorted Lewis, speaking rapidly and as though actuated by intense hatred. "I mean that your uncle, the man whose vile name you bear, is a convict and that he caused the death of an innocent girl."

"With a wild cry of rage Marvel drew his pistol, which he had reloaded after the shooting match, and fired at Lewis. The sequence of events had been so startling and so rapid that none of us made a move to save Lewis except Virgie, who exhibited her usual presence of mind. With a quick upward motion of her hand she diverted her lover's aim so that the ball went into the air. Having thus saved the life of her adopted father, she turned to Marvel and said the single word 'Go.' Walter looked at her a moment with despair upon his face; then, as she made no answer to his mute appeal, he threw his weapon from him and rushed from the place, threatening Lewis with his vengeance."

"He had scarcely departed when Lucas pushed through the surrounding circle and upbraided Lewis for what had occurred. Lewis, by this time beside himself with rage, ordered Lucas to leave the premises, and threatened to set his dog upon him if he would not do so, or if he ever should return. Lucas muttered some threatening words, but prepared to leave, whereupon Alice Marvel pressed forward and said:

"'You are a coward to have insulted two gentlemen while they were your guests. I almost feel that I could kill you myself.'"

"Alice is usually a quiet girl, but she is somewhat hysterical, and as the two men were the one her brother and the other her sweetheart she was much overwrought. She and Lucas left simultaneously. Then Virgie, still maintaining her dignity, said:

"'Since my uncle has acted so churlishly to three of my guests, I advise the rest of my friends to retire lest he should humiliate us further.'"

"That she spoke of him as uncle madened Lewis, and he retorted angrily: 'Go, all of you, but—picking up Marvel's pistol—I call you all to witness that this is Walter Marvel's weapon and that with it he attempted to take my life.'"

The squire paused a moment and then resumed:

"I was an eyewitness of this scene, and I assure you that I have not exaggerated it in the least. On the following day Lewis applied to me to procure a warrant for him. As I was once a justice of the peace he knew that I understand such matters. I tried to dissuade him from his purpose, but he was determined to have Marvel arrested for assault with intent to kill. He procured the warrant, but thus far Marvel has kept out of the way. After several more unsuccessful attempts to persuade Lewis to abandon his object I was obliged to give up the task. Then the continued absence of young Marvel began to worry me, and I feared that he might return and kill Lewis. Therefore I have decided that it will be best to find him before any such calamity can occur, this as much for his sake as for the safety of Lewis. So I have sent for you, Mr. Barnes, taking a step of which Lewis is ignorant. And now may I ask you what in your judgment will be the chance of apprehending Marvel?"

"Oh," said Mr. Barnes, "there will be no difficulty in finding him. I do not think he is hiding from the law. If at all, it is from the disgrace which he fancies that Mr. Lewis has cast upon him. But if he really loves Miss Lewis the thing is simple. We have but to watch her. He is sure to seek an interview sooner or later."

"There," said the squire admiringly, "see how quickly you get at it. I should never have thought of such a mode of proceeding. You are right, too, as to your first conjecture. Marvel is high spirited, and I should not be surprised if he surrenders as soon as he learns that he is wanted. That is why I have been worried by his disappearance. But here we are at the farm."

The house was an elegant frame building of the Queen Anne style of architecture. The grounds were on the south side of the road, so that the dwelling faced the north. It was recessed about 50 feet from a picket fence, and the party entered through a neat, painted gate, a brick paved walk leading them up to the main door. This was standing invitingly open. Squire Olney seemed entirely at home, for he led the way straight in without the formality of using the great brass lion's paw which served as a knocker. This bold entry was not destined to go unresented, however, for a huge mastiff appeared, coming from an inner room, and growled ominously. At a word from the squire the dog assumed a less hostile demeanor and prowled about the party, sniffing at their persons as though to make their acquaintance. When he reached Lewis, who was the last to enter, he raised himself up on his hind legs, and planting his fore paws on his breast, tried to lick him on the face. Lewis resented the animal's familiarity and seemed much annoyed as he brusquely pushed him down with an exclamation of impatience.

"Why, Mr. Lewis," said the squire, "the dog acts as though he knows you. Can it be possible that he remembers you? I know that your father brought him here when he first came, but that is years ago, and he was a mere puppy then."

"I remember him well enough now, but I doubt if his recollection spans the interval between now and the time when I gave him bread and milk in my puppy days. I receive that kind of attention from nearly all dogs. Some of the fiercest have favored me at sight. Once at a bench show in London I bet that I could pat the head of any dog there. I won the wager, though the animal selected was a ferocious looking bulldog, over whose kennel was conspicuously displayed the warning placard: 'Dangerous. Do not handle.' They say that a dog knows a friend instinctively, and I am certainly a friend of the canine species, ranking dogs next to human beings. But let us seek my father. I am anxious to meet him."

"Well, come in here," said the squire, leading the way into a room on the left of the hall. "This is the parlor. Remain here while I hunt up Lewis."

The squire had barely passed the doorway when he uttered a cry of alarm and hurried across the room. His companions hastened after him and beheld the prostrate form of a man lying upon the rug in front of the fireplace. The squire leaned over the body for a moment and then jumped up, with horror depicted on every feature.

"There has been a terrible accident," said he. "My friend Lewis is here, dead!"

The others pressed forward. They saw the motionless body of a man. He lay on his side, with his head near the fireplace, in which were the remains of a log fire. This fire must have been a hot one, as the face of the dead man, which had been covered in life with a heavy beard, was now scarcely more than a mass of charred flesh and therefore entirely unrecognizable. In spots there remained the burned stubs of the hair on the face and more on the head, but in many places it was burned entirely away, exposing the flesh, a blackened human charcoal.

Lewis gazed in a dazed and semi-conscious way at the awful sight and in a low, hoarse whisper asked:

"Is this my father?"

The squire started at the question, and at once realized all the horror of the situation. He did not reply, but beckoned to the two detectives to follow him and quietly left the room. Accompanied by them, he led the way across the hall into the library, and then repeated what he had exclaimed at first sight of the body—that it was that of John Lewis, in whose interest they had come to the house.

"Put," continued he, "I cannot understand how it is that we find him dead and in such a position. It looks at first sight like heart disease or apoplexy. How terrible that he should have fallen into the fire and have been so dreadfully disfigured!"

"Did you ever fancy that your friend had any physical ailment of the kind?" asked Mr. Barnes.

"Why, no. I always considered him the stoutest, heartiest man of my acquaintance."

"Is it not singular, then, that he should be taken away so suddenly as this?"

"Now that you suggest the idea, it does seem so. The whole thing has been so startling and so unexpected that I have not collected my thoughts sufficiently to analyze the situation. I find my friend dead on the floor of his own house after having seen him alive and well only last evening, and I suppose I have adopted the first theory which presented itself."

"You say you saw your friend last evening?" asked Mr. Barnes in a quiet voice, keeping his eyes steadily fixed on the squire.

Something in his tone or in his manner of asking the question attracted the squire, and he turned and faced his interrogator as he replied:

"Yes."

"Where?"

"There—in the very room where we now find his corpse. I came to talk about this business once more and to try to dissuade him from pursuing it further."

"Can you tell at what time you left him? Is there any circumstance by which you can fix the time accurately? Think well. It may be important."

"Important?" echoed the squire.

"Why, man, what are you getting at? Surely you cannot think that—Merciful Heaven! Do you suppose that my friend has been murdered?"

"Squire Olney, I cannot say that I have really formed such an opinion, but a man in my profession sees such things only too often, and therefore when he finds a dead body under anything like peculiar circumstances, such as these, for example, his suspicions are aroused more quickly perhaps than might be the case with other men. But if you think your young friend, the son, may now have sufficiently recovered from his shock we will go into the room again. An examination of the body may remove any doubts on this subject."

Mr. Barnes then started toward the next room, and the squire followed, hardly daring to think of what they might be about to discover.

Appreciating the fact that the business before them was very serious, the three men entered the parlor quite gravely. As they did so Lewis, who was bending over the body, rose and said in a low voice:

"Gentlemen, my father has been murdered." The squire sank into the nearest chair. His last hope was gone. Lewis continued: "I repeat he has been murdered. There is a bullet hole in his left side, where it is almost impossible for him to have shot himself; therefore suicide is out of the question."

At the words "bullet hole" Mr. Barnes became all attention. Here was something tangible. Here was real evidence. The position of the wound, too, that was quite important, and Lewis' conclusion seemed logical enough. But he had used the correct words when he said "almost impossible." Mr. Barnes was a careful man in forming opinions, and experience had taught him that the seemingly impossible often occurs. Still, in the line of thought suggested by Lewis' words, he turned to Squire Olney:

"Can you tell us whether your friend was left handed?"

"Yes, I am sure he was not."

"Then it is probable that he was shot by some other party than himself. Squire, the affair is now serious. It becomes our duty to try to find the guilty party."

At the word "duty" the squire recovered himself instantly and was all attention. Mr. Barnes continued:

"The coroner should be notified at once."

"I am the coroner of the county," replied the squire. "In this town we have not needed such an officer within the memory of man. However, in this instance the duty devolves upon me. Therefore I am in charge of the case. Mr. Barnes, as you came down to serve me in a matter now at rest I suppose you can place yourself at my disposal and assist in finding the murderer?"

"I think that the murderer fired from the outside."

"Certainly," replied Mr. Barnes. "I will simply notify the chief of the facts, and he will grant me more time than I should have asked for before. Do you object to my having Mr. Burrows as my assistant?"

"Of course not. I want to see you commence your work at once. No time is to be lost. I may have been anxious to hush up the other matter, but I am alive to the seriousness of this. Whoever he may be and at whatever cost the murderer must be found and brought to justice."

"Very well, sir. From this moment we act under your orders. As you say, no time must be lost. The murderer has several hours' start of us now, and we must catch up our end of the trail as quickly as possible. The first thing to be done is to examine the room and premises minutely for clues. I therefore suggest that you and Mr. Lewis leave us to work alone while you summon men to form your jury."

"A very good suggestion. I will act on it at once. Come, Mr. Lewis, a walk in the open air will help you after the shock which you have sustained." Taking Lewis by the arm, the two left the room.

A Remarkable Cure of Chronic Diarrhoea.

In 1862, when I served my country as a private in Company A, 167th Pennsylvania Volunteers, I contracted chronic diarrhoea. It has given me a great deal of trouble ever since. I have tried a dozen different medicines and several prominent doctors without any permanent result. One long ago a friend sent me a sample bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and after that I bought and took a 50 cent bottle; and now I can say that I am entirely cured. I cannot be thankful enough to you for this great Remedy, and recommend it to all suffering veterans. If in doubt write me. Yours gratefully, HENRY STEINBERGER, Allentown, Pa. Sold at C. D. Stevens' pharmacy, corner Main and Milwaukee streets.

It is always gratifying to receive testimonials for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and when the endorsement is from a physician it is especially so. "There is no more satisfactory or effective remedy than Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy," writes Dr. R. E. Kobey, physician and pharmacist, of Olney, Mo.; and as he has used the Remedy in his own family and sold it in his drug store for six years, he should certainly know. For sale at C. D. Good Printing...

Is like good painting—it demands and obtains a second glance. The second glance leads to thought about and knowledge of the thing portrayed, and then on to the artist or advertiser.

The kind of printing as well as the kind of painting that it pays to do and to have done is that which obtains this "second glance." Plenty of the other kind!

We are PRINTERS. Our work obtains glances of admiration, and thus leads on to the end desired. We don't do the "other kind." Put our job room to the test.
